About Ghosts.

BY DENNIS O'RAFFERTY.

They tell me no sprites, ghosts, or witches,
Since the year eighteen hundred exist;
Begob, I've seen ghosts in Kilkenny
Wid eyeballs the size of me fist.

Let scientists prache till bronchitis
Laves ivery man of them dead;
I know fat I know, and be jabers
They'll ne'er bate it out of me head.

Mesilf has held hair-raising converse
Wid more than one ghost, in the lane
That lades from M'Bride's to O'Conner's—
I hope I'll ne'er see thim again.

But the worst one of all that e're wandered
On Arin's swate sarpentless sod,
Was that of one Jamie McFadden,
A neck-broken knight of the hod.

Whiniver I'd mate wid his worship,
Me blood below zero would fall;
Though thryin me best to address him
I'd utter jist nothin at all.

Me eyes would shtick out like a bottle,
And somethin would rise in me hat;
I thought a great dale, and imagined
We'd had quite a neighborly chat.

But shure I know well there are sprites
Of ivery dimension and size;
And all other doctrines and ideas
Are nothin but new-fangled lies.

The Story-Teller.

THE LOST MINE.

"Let us go back."

"To the States?"

"Yes."

"To Buena Vista?"

"Of course. Where else would we go?"

The last speaker was a dark-faced, brigandish-looking man of five and forty; his companion a handsome fellow at least fifteen years his junior. They sat in the light of a small fire in one of the famous gulches of New Mexico, and seemed to be alone. Their carbines rested on the ground beside them, and the twain looked fatigued.

The words of the elder caused a sneer to ruffle the lips of the other and determination flashed in his dark eyes.

"I am not going back to the States, much less to Buena Vista, before I have found the treasure."

"Then, by George, some sun will find you in a gulch with a dozen feathered sticks in your body. Where's Davis?"

"Dead!"

"And Angerbright?"

"Dead."

"Yes, and if you'll go up to the Rio Grande you'll find poor Knight's anatomy, and in the best heart that ever lived in Ohio is an Apache arrow head. There were five of us when we left Buena Vista; you and I are all the Indians have spared. All Heaven knows that they are after us now!"

"You can go back if you wish, Kyle. I am going to find the treasure."

"What! go back and leave you here! Chalbert Rose, you don't know Kyle Bains. I never mor'n half believed the story about the lost mine, and we have been upon a wild-goose chase."

"I believe we are near the treasure," responded the younger adventurer, confidently. "I do not think that the information I gathered in Taos is altogether deceptive. But we will talk while we hunt to-morrow. Kyle, I guard to-night. Lie down and go to sleep."

Obedient the bearded man drew a blanket about his person, and threw himself upon the ground. A moment later he was asleep and it seemed that his guard, Chalbert Ross, was not far from the land of dreams. He seemed worn out with traveling; but there was a fire in his eye, and his ear was on the alert for admonitions of danger.

Perhaps he thought of the three Ohio boys who in high spirits had crossed the Arkansas at his side a short time prior to the date of his present encampment. Brave fellows and full of adventure they were; but there were Indian arrows in their bodies, and on the banks of unexplored streams they slept the sleep of the dead. Now but two of the little band of five men who left the Buckeye State to rediscover one of the many hidden silver mines of New Mexico remained, they had hunted many weeks with the shadow of death's wing above them, and dark mystery before.

The ignis fatuus, invented perhaps by some imaginative writer, had lured them to the gulches and chasms of the to them, terra incognita of America. Would they ever escape? It was a question they could not answer.

Chalbert Ross felt that sleep was stealing over him while he watched his prostrate companion; and coveted the refreshing slumber that closed his heavy lids. He rose and paced up and down the canyon in the light of the fire. Far above him glittered the stars; on each side, dull, gray rocks, on which his giant-like shadow fell. Once he paused and drew a medallion portrait from his bosom, and looked at it.

He saw the beautiful features of girlhood, bright blue eyes, and a wealth of radiant hair, as aurate as the sun-beams.

'She wouldn't know me now," he murmured. "I look so old. I wonder if all silver hunters get so haggard. I ought to go back to her; but not without the treasure. No! no! no!

He repeated the monosyllable with the determination, and the giant, talking in his dreams, seemed to respond pathetically, for he said:

"Then we've got to die; there's no help for it!"

Ross laughed when he saw that his burly companion had spoken in his slumber, and a minute later having seated himself before the fire, was asleep himself.

He did not hear the stealthy footstep in the canyon; he did not see the figure that came from the gloom his eyes had failed to penetrate.

It was the figure of an Indian girl, who carried a bow, to the string of which fitted an exquisitely-shaped arrow. She saw the sleeping men, and never took her eyes from them.

Had she marked them for her shafts? We shall see.

Stealthily approaching, she stooped over Chalbert Ross, and touched his shoulder with her bow. The touch roused him, and he looked into her eyes astonished. She touched her lips indicative of silence, and, stepping back, motioned him to rise. He glanced at Bains.

The giant still slept, and, confident that he would not awake for a while, the younger hunter arose and followed the Apache girl.

Without a word, she led him down the canyon until she began to ascend. He followed her up the rough path to the country above, and on the edge of the gulch—the precipice—she paused.

"The country so far as the white man can see belongs to Walpin, the Apache," she said, sweeping her hand before her. "He owns a thousand rifles, and more horses than two pale-faces can count. Neva is his child, and the only child he has. She has followed the pale-face for many miles, and she knows what brought him to the land of the Apaches."

She smiled as she spoke the last sentence, and Chalbert Ross started forward with eagerness.

"Tell me—tell me, Neva, where is it!" he cried.

"The lost mine of shining silver?" she cried.

"Yes! yes!"

"What will the pale face do if Neva tells him?"

"Anything you ask?"

"Anything, he says," she said, triumphantly, in a low whisper. "He says he will do anything Neva asks if she tells him about the lost silver mine. She will try him. Neva will see if the pale-face is as good as his word."

"Try me, girl. Chalbert Ross never broke a promise."

Then her right hand pointed to the west—away from the canyon.

"Do the eyes of the silver-hunter behold a fire?" she asked.

"They do."

"There is a wagon train from the white man's country," continued the Apache. Walpin has said that it might halt in his land, for the pale-faces do not hunt silver-mines. In one of the wagons is a pale girl."

Chalbert Ross started again.

"Will the white man swear to obey Neva if she tells him where the silver is?" the chief's daughter asked.

"Yes."

"Let him swear it."

The oath was taken.

"Now!" cried the Apache girl, in tones of triumph, "Neva commands the silver-hunter to slay the white rose."

With a cry of horror on his lips, Chalbert Ross started back, staring at the Apache, cursing himself for his rash promise.

For a moment he did not speak.

"Is the silver-hunter a coward!" she cried.

"No! but you have asked too much, Neva. It would be murder."

The Indian girl laughed.

"Well, if the pale-face's word is worthless, he will die near the lost silver; but but his eyes will never see it. Neva knows where it is. There are rocks of shining wealth; but the skeletons of the old spaniards guard them."

"What care I for skeletons? cried Ross, "I will keep my word! Where is the mine?"

"In a few words the Apache girl located the silver mine, and swore to guide the hunters thither."

"But first the white girl must step upon the long trail," she said. "If the hunter fails, Neva's shaft will find his heart. She will meet him to-morrow night. Can he find the fire where his brother sleeps?"

"Yes," answered the young man, and the next minute the Apache girl was gliding away.

For a while he stood alone, undecided. Thought of making his way to the corraled train, and getting a glimpse of the travelers; but, after some sober thinking, descended to the bed of the canyon, and rejoined his companion, whom he immediately awakened.

Kyle Bains was soon made acquainted with Neva's visit, and the oath she had exacted from his friend.

"Look here," he said. "We can't find the silver without the girl, that's certain; and she won't guide us until the white one is out of her road. A little case of jealousy. Her red lover has been smitten by the pale girl. I'll attend to that business. I've sinned oftner than you, Chalbert Ross."

"But it will be murder."

"Well, what of it! Nobody will know it in Buena Vista or elsewhere. It will give us the silver.

That seemed to decide Chalbert Ross. He would escape the crime; but would he not be particeps criminis to the foul deed? In his eagerness to find the lost mine of untold wealth—lost for three hundred years—he never thought of that.

The men kept awake until the light of day dissipated the night, then, after dispatching a frugal meal, they secured their steeds, which they had turned out to graze, and gradually left the canyon.

"Yonder is the train!" said Ross, pointing westward. "We'll ride down and see where it hails from."

They urged their horses into a brisk gallop, and were rapidly nearing the wagons, when Bains drew rein with an exclamation of surprise.

"I've been thinking for some time that black mass was a party of Indians," he said, with his eyes fixed upon a dark body approaching the wagon train from the south-west. "If they're Apaches, Ross, we want to keep our distance for the present."

"Yes," was the response. "We'll watch them from this point."

It was soon distinctly seen that the moving mass was a band of savages, and some consternation seemed to prevail among the emigrants. Men were seen hurrying to and fro, seeing to their steeds, families and fire-arms.

By-and by, the savages reached the trains, and the silver hunters saw them mingle with the whites.

For a few moments the intentions of the Indians seemed to be peaceful; but suddenly a yell rent the air, and the report of fire-arms followed.

"Heavens! they're massacreing the whites!" cried Ross. "We must help them, Kyle!"

"No!" was the response. "They are doing the work you were to do."

"I care not!" cried the young hunter. "I want to see the girl. They shall not kill her."

He unslung his carbine, and gave his steed the shining spurs.

"He is mad!" ejaculated Bains, dashing after him. "But I'll follow him to the gates of Hades!"

He soon caught up with the excited Ohioan, and together the twain dashed among the combatants, and dealt deadly blows right and left. Several wagons were already in flames, and the emigrants were fighting for their families like tigers

Suddenly Chalbert Ross heard his name called in a woman's despairing tone.

He turned and beheld a white face in one of the shattered wagons.

The next instant, regardless of the lances that glittered about him, he cleared a path and was alongside.

"Kate!" he cried, "how came you here?"

"I had hoped to find you, Chalbert," was the weak reply. "Buena Vista—My God! look, for your life."

He turned and struck the lance aside, and slew the Apache whose hands clutched madly. Then a press of foes bore him back; but again, after a minute's desperate fighting, he came to the wagon.

Kate Aylesford's face was still there, but it was so very pale.

"Kate! Kate!"

No answer. He lifted her head, and then cried:

"Dead! The devils have slain the woman I loved!"

How madly he turned, then, and how fiercely he fought, the reader can tell.

By-and by the fortunes of battle brought him face to face with Kyle Bains.

"Come!" he cried, we must escape.

"Agreed!" said the giant, and the two men fought themselves clear of foes, and rode away like the wind.

Hotly the Indians pursued; but they never caught the men who, for the life of Kate Aylesford, took terrible vengeance.

She was Chalbert Ross' Ohio love; her's was the face on the medallion, and it was her life that the silver hunter had promised Neva to take.

The Indian girl never met the hunters again. In their hunt for vengeance they forgot the lost mine, and years afterward a man with gray hairs entered the village of Buena Vista.

It was Chalbert Ross, and he told a tale of vengeance that filled many a heart.—Kyle Bains fell before an Apache arrow; but not until he could boast of satisfying his hatred of the red race.

Where Kate Aylesford sleeps I do not know; but there is an old man who could tell you, reader.

Reading for the Million.

A Convention of Dentists.

A Convention of Dentists held their second semi-annual meeting, in Huntingdon, during the 20th and 21st days of January. This society is known as the Central Pennsylvania Dental Association, and is composed of many of the most successful Dentists of Huntingdon, Blair, Bedford, Clearfield, Centre and Mifflin counties.

It convened at 10 o'clock, a. m., at the office of Dr. E. J. Green, over twenty Dentists being present, to consume, by profitable discussion, every available moment until 4 o'clock, Thursday afternoon. After having held five sessions all declared the Convention to be a grand success. The object for which the society was organized was to promote professional intercourse among its members, and to encourage investigation in every direction which tends to elevate the Dental profession and qualify its members to meet every want of an intelligent community.

Perhaps there is no Dental society in the State in which the qualifications for membership are so much demanded and so highly appreciated as in the Central Pennsylvania Dental Association. Candidates for membership must be located Dentists, and must be examined by a Board of Censors, upon the following subjects: Anatomy of the mouth, treatment of the gums and adjacent parts, professional etiquette, relation of the Dentist to his patient, filling teeth, materials used, treatment of exposed nerves, treatment of alveola abscess, filling nerve canals in roots of teeth, toothache, cure and treatment, care of childrens' teeth, extracting of teeth, preparation of the mouth to receive artificial teeth, materials used in the manufacture of dental plates, taking the impression of the mouth, selection of the teeth, articulation and the introduction of dentures in the mouth.

This is as it should be. Deutists should be men of honor, men of ability, men able and willing to communicate to each other all they know concerning the science of Dentistry. To witness the wholesale destruction of the natural teeth, as practiced by would be Dentists, is both sinful and alarming. Many are yet to learn by sad experience how much of health and beauty depends upon the intelligent Dentist.—This Convention would class their profession with the healing art, and recognize the great work of the Dentist to preserve the natural teeth, and not to extract and make room for artificial sets.

The time of the Convention was employed in discussing such subjects and questions as these: How soon after extracting should artificial teeth be inserted? The best method of destroying the nerve of a tooth? Treatment after the nerve is dead. How to treat an abscessed tooth.—What is the best method of treating a diseased nerve, treating and capping nerves so as to save the tooth? Placing a patient under the influence of ether, gas or chloroform to extract teeth?

Dr. Miller of Altoona, and Dr. Buchanan of Huntingdon, each read an able essay before the Convention, having for their subjects the filling of the molar teeth with gold, and society membership, and the introduction of students into the profession.

Great interest was manifested in discussing and demonstrating the manipulations necessary to manufacture, and the utility of the new plate known as the "celluloid-base," now being introduced into practice and intended to supercede the vulcanite or rubber plate. All present pronounced the set of teeth which was made and the demonstration as a grand success. Each determined to continue the experiments and introduce the plate into practice, beheving it had all the advantages of the rubber plate without some of the disadvantages too well known by every intelligent Dentist.

The time was so pleasantly spent that many desired to have the meetings quarterly instead of semi-annually. The next meeting will be held in Altoona

Dr. J. W. Isenberg of Altoona, and Dr. H. H. Rothrock of Bellefonte, were elected delegates to represent the Central Pennsylvania Dental Association in the State Dental Society, which will meet at Cresson in July next.

The officers of the Association are President, Dr. E. J. Green, Huntingdon; Vice President, Dr. H. H. Rothrock, Bellefonte; Secretary, Dr. J. W. Isenberg, Altoona; Corresponding Secretary, Dr. G. L. Robb, Huntingdon; Treasurer, Dr. J. F. McClure, Tyrone; Board of Censors, J. M. Stewart of Curwinsville, G. L. Robb of Huntingdon, and J. T. Leet of Hollidaysburg.

The Convention adjourned with many thanks to the kind people of Huntingdon, and many wishes for the success of her Dental practitioners.

J. W. ISENBERG, Sec'y.

Letter from California.

SAN JUSTO RANCHO, NEAR SAN JUAN, CAL., January 15, 1875.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—When I wrote my last letter, some months ago, I had intended to leave off the subject of climate and begin to tell of the products of our State, but the former subject is so attractive to one accustomed to the rigor of Pennsylvania winters, that I am constrained to beg your readers' indulgence while I continue it a little further.

It is now midwinter, and I see by the San Francisco paper I have just laid down that on last Friday the thermometer stood at 28° below zero, at Des Moines, Iowa, with intensely cold weather all through the Middle, Eastern and more especially the North Western States. Here I am, sitting in a room with no fire and am not uncomfortably cold. I looked at the thermometer just now that hangs on the porch and found it standing 58° or 76 above freezing point. The day is cloudy with rain, and on a bright day it stands higher.

The farmers are now in the midst of their seeding. An immense crop of wheat is being put in. Plowing commenced in November, immediately after the first rains and, including harrowing and sowing, will probably continue until March.

The work of putting in the wheat crop is, in California, very differently done from the same in the East. The farming being nearly all done on a very large scale, the necessity of using all the most approved labor and time saving machinery is obvious. Instead of using the single plow with two horses and walking in the furrow after the plow, the Californian rides, and instead of the single plow the gang plows are used with from two to six plows in a gang. The plows are arranged in echelon with two wheels, one running on the plowed land, the other on the unplowed, with a spring seat for the driver, as the seat is arranged on the moving machine. The most common teams are four horses and a gang of two or three plows, but as many as eight horses are sometimes used in plow teams, but when more than four are used they are spread out and three and four horses are driven abreast. All the teams here, not excepting the plow and harrow teams, are driven with check-lines instead of the single line, so that many of the plowmen handle from six to eight lines, as they weave back and forth across the immense fields, turning down from three to eight furrows of the loose, alluvial soil, taking a swath as wide as the ordinary mower. The harrows are of corresponding proportions, very much lighter in the frame and with longer and sharper teeth than Eastern harrows. The soil being for the most part very loose, sandy loam, black and mellow and new, once harrowing with these is all that is needed to make the ground smooth and cover the grain. The use of grain drills is not common here, but in their stead a sowing machine.—With this machine 60 acres per day can be sown and I am told that the work is done with a regularity unattainable in hand sowing. The machine is very simple, consisting of a frame with a hopper on the top, which is placed on a farm wagon. The revolving of the wagon wheel moves the machinery of the sower, and as the grain runs through a small aperture in the bottom of the hopper and would fall down at the hind end of the wagon, it is scattered in all directions by a rapidly revolving wheel. Of course such a machine on a farm of 150 acres would hardly be necessary, but where a farmer puts in from 300 to several thousand acres of wheat annually, as many do in this valley, and where labor is high, they are just what farmers need. Then when the wheat is ready to harvest, it is reaped by means of large machines called "Headers" which cut off the heads without taking much of the straw. The wheat is gathered into immense stacks in the centre of the field, and threshed by means of a separator driven by a stationary steam engine.—After it is threshed it is put into sacks containing 100 lbs. each and stacked in the field awaiting the convenience of the owner to market it. No fear of rain for three months. As we came through on the Central and Southern Pacific Railroads, near the latter part of August, we saw thousands of sacks lying there in the immense grain fields, with no danger of being spoiled by an unexpected shower.—But of the harvesting, hereafter. The winter thus far has been unusually dry and has quite disappointed my expectations regarding the "rainy season," but last night some rain fell, to-day the clouds have been lowering with some rain and appearances this afternoon point to a settled rain.

Except in the more newly settled districts, California is as quiet and law abiding as her older sisters. For many years, however, a gang of robbers and cut-throats have been operating in the more thinly settled places in Southern California, under the leadership of a Mexican named Tiburcio Vasquez. About twenty years ago Vasquez began his career of crime by stabbing a constable who attempted to prevent an altercation between Vasquez and another Mexican at a fandango or Mexican dance. He soon afterwards organized a gang who robbed stages, and stole horses and committed murders from time to time when any one came in the way of secrecy or the success of their crimes. Vasquez was twice imprisoned, but once was liberated and once succeeded in liberating himself.

In August, 1873, the gang robbed a store at Tres Pinos, and in doing so murdered three men. This fearful outrage of course aroused universal indignation. A large reward was offered for the apprehension of Vasquez and his followers, and after eluding all the efforts and the vigilance of half a dozen sheriffs, he (Vasquez) was captured by a posse near Los Angeles, about eight

HUNTINGDON, PENN'A.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 3. 1875.

Circulation LARGER than any other Paper in the Juniata Valley.

☞ Auditor General Allen will accept our thanks for a copy of his Annual Report.

☞ We have received a copy of the World Almanac for 1875, which contains, in small space, much interesting political matter, of great value to the newspaper fraternity generally.

☞ At the Grand Army Encampment, at Chester, on Wednesday last, Adjutant Jno. M. Vanderslice was presented, on behalf of the Department, with a magnificent gold badge of the Order as a testimonial of their esteem for his services as Attorney for the Grand Army in the Cassville investigation. The badge is pronounced to be a very fine piece of work, and will be proudly worn by the recipient.

☞ The JOURNAL is not insisting upon the nomination of any particular person, but insists that the State Ring, which defeated the Republican party last fall, shall not dictate its nominations in the future. And we deny, emphatically, that the men who compose this Ring made the Republican party, or saved the Union. They are mere parasites, who are sapping the life-blood from the party, and the party must get rid of them at all hazards.

☞ The last Sunday City Item names, among the probable candidates for Governor, next fall, Gen. Charles Albright, of Mauch Chunk; Winthrop W. Ketchum, of Luzerne; Charles Thompson Jones, of Philadelphia; Young S. Walter, of Delaware; Gen. Negley, of Pittsburgh; Judge Schofield, Gen. Todd, and John W. Killinger. By George, this is a handsome list! With our friends Albright and Walter as rivals, we would be in the fix of the amorous swain who soliloquized:

"How happy could I be with either,
Were the other dear charmer away."

☞ In our remarks, published last week, in regard to the Republican caucus nomination for United States Senator, we do not wish to be understood as casting any reflection on Hon. John Allison, Register of the Treasury, who received that compliment. He is said to be a worthy sort of an old gentleman from Mercer, formerly of Beaver county, of course no one would think of questioning the right of Beaver county to control all the offices, State and Federal, in the gift of the Republican party of Pennsylvania, but we insist that every man in that county should have at least one office, before the managers begin doubling over and giving the citizens of that enterprising district two offices each.

HON. JOHN SCOTT.—"Gath" the Washington correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, compliments Pennsylvania's retiring U. S. Senator thus:

I have never known, in my time, any man of the Pennsylvania delegation more respected and his loss more lamented than Hon. John Scott.

He came here under the imputation of being a railway lawyer, to be expected to abet railroad schemes.

He has been an independent yet courteous Senator, avoiding controversy, not unpursued by malice, but calmly shedding it from the polished armor of a pure walk and life, and on the single occasion I recall, where he was assailed by the press for opposing inflation, he has lived to see his accusers themselves put under by the exposures of the hour. He has lived, besides, to see the effort made to swap him off for another and blinder partisan result in the loss of the State to the party through the jesuitry of events. Pennsylvania men are almost invariably dwarfed by Pennsylvania interests, but the interests are often a bad guide to the judgment.

MOVEMENT TO INVESTIGATE.

The following resolution was offered in the House of Representatives at Harrisburg, by Mr. Smith, of Berks:

Resolved, That the speaker of the House be and is hereby authorized and directed to appoint a select committee of seven members, whose duty it shall be to make full and particular inquiry and investigation into the accounts of the treasury of the State during the period of the terms of office of Wm. H. Kemble, W. W. Irwin and Robert W. Mackey, and to this end and for such purpose the committee shall have power to send for persons and papers; shall have full and free access to all books and papers in the office of the Treasurer of the State, and shall have authority to inspect all books and papers of all banks or persons in which or with whom the moneys of the State have been deposited during the terms of said Treasurers in so far as they relate to such matters. Further, said committee shall inquire into the manner and terms upon which any loans of indebtedness to the State may have been negotiated, sold or negociated during such time, and the said committee shall have authority to administer oaths, employ a clerk and an accountant at such compensation as they may deem just.

The resolution has been referred to a committee to report upon the right of the House to order such an investigation.

Senator-Elect Wallace's Promises—His Constant Effort to Revive Pennsylvania's Prostrated Industries.

CLEARFIELD, PA., January 22.—The Hon. William A. Wallace, the United States Senator-elect, arrived at his home this evening and was received by an immense delegation of his friends and townsmen. In response to their congratulations, he spoke as follows:

MY FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS.—I thank you for the cordial reception you give me. To you in all my political life I have always looked for support and sympathy, and it is my pride to know that I have never looked in vain. In the fierce struggle through which I have just passed, the knowledge of your sympathy upheld me, and when I was tempted to reply with indignation to the obloquy that has been heaped upon me, I felt your support restraining and upholding me. Conscious of your esteem and mindful that the harmony of a great organization was infinitely above the personal aims of one of its members, I have tried so to bear myself through the contest that, come what would to me, the unity of your party and the success of its principles should be jeopardized by no act of mine. In the performance of the duties of the high place to which I have been chosen I shall try to represent fitly the best interests of all the people of my native State. It shall be my constant effort to uphold her dignity, increase her influence, and, through the application of sound theories of political economy to legislation, to revive her prostrated industries and advance her material interests. Her great voice should ever be heard in support of the majesty of law, the supremacy of the civil over the military power, and of the independence of local government from the control of Federal authority.—I have been chosen as the representative of the liberal Democratic element of the Commonwealth, and as such I shall recognize it as my duty to aid in moulding the policy of the government in accordance with the doctrines of progressive and liberal Democracy. The real interests of the people are best subserved by a practical and living theory, applied in the light of the teachings of the Constitution to the necessity of our every-day life, and he who gropes in the mist of past decades for dogmas with which to rule the present, forgets or ignores the stern logic of events.—The past is buried; the future is our own if we will grasp and direct it.

The cardinal theories of the Constitution and the doctrines of civil liberty are not alone of the past, but are of this hour, to be used, applied and enforced on all occasions and in all sections of the Republic, as the birthright of every citizen of the Union. A strict adherence to these teachings, and integrity and rigid economy in the administration of the Government, are vital prerequisites to the financial prosperity of the people, and to the restoration of the government of law in every locality. It shall be my effort to so perform my duties as to aid in producing these results, which are, to my mind, the essence of good government. Again thanking you for the warmth of your greeting, and inviting your tolerance for my shortcomings in the future, I bid you good night.

The Texas and Pacific Railway Company.

To the Editor of the New York Times:

I have read with some surprise the article in the New York Times of this date relating to the Texas and Pacific Railway and myself. It is difficult to understand how a paper such as the Times, having access to reliable information, would allow such a statement to be made in its columns. I take it for granted that no one of the editors of the paper ever could have read either the bill or memorial submitted to Congress by the Texas and Pacific Railroad Company.

The company never asked Congress to guarantee interest on $50,000 of bonds per mile. It proposed in the bill and memorial that Government should guarantee interest on bonds to the amount of $40,000 per mile, to be secured by a mortgage on the railway, its equipment, Government lands, revenues, and franchises, of which not exceeding $35,000 per mile should be used for constructing and equipping the road up to Government standard; with the further provisions that all moneys should be expended under the control and direction of commissioners of the United States, and that not one dollar of bonds should be issued, except to represent expenditures certified to by said commissioners. So that in no event could over $35,000 per mile be used in constructing and equipping the road, and of these $35,000, all bonds in excess of the actual expenditure would remain in the control of the Treasury of the United States.

These bonds being the company's bonds, not the Government's, secured by a first mortgage, and bearing interest at five per cent., the only liability the Government assumed would be an assurance to the purchaser of the bond in Europe or elsewhere that the interest would be promptly paid.

To provide for this interest the bill provides:

First, That the Government shall retain the entire sums due for military transportation and its postal and telegraph service.

Second. That the company shall pay into the United States Treasury the net proceeds of the sales of Government lands.

Third. A sufficient amount of the earnings of the line, with the sums before recited, to meet each interest payment ten days before its maturity; and,

Fourth. As a further security, five thousand dollars of the first mortgage bonds to be held by the Secretary of the Treasury or each mile of road built, with power to sell the same to meet any contingency of the company failing to deposit the amount necessary for such interest payments, by reason of insufficient earnings during construction.

I beg to call your attention to the fact that it will require but five thousand dollars per mile of gross earnings to give the company ample means to meet this interest. And the ability of the company to earn this amount cannot be doubted, when the Union and Central Pacific Roads, running through a country less rich in natural resources, now earn eleven thousand dollars per mile, of which eight thousand dollars is from local traffic alone.

I believe, and have so stated to the committees, that in no event, in my judgment, would Congress ever be called upon to appropriate a dollar to meet this interest, as the resources of the company would be able to take care of the question.

The bill as amended omits the line to San Francisco, and embraces a mileage of 1,940 miles to San Diego, which, at $35,000 per mile, would amount to $67,900,000, the interest on which at five per cent. would be $3,995,000.

The connections proposed, through the Atlantic and Pacific to St. Louis, and via Vicksburg and New Orleans with all the Southern Lines of railway, aggregate 740 miles, on which the bonds would amount to $24,200,000, on which the interest would be $1,210,000. So that the entire interest, as proposed in the bill, would be but $4,605,000 per annum, if the entire amount allowed for construction and equipment were issued, which would not be the case unless they were actually required for such purposes. By connecting the Atlantic and Pacific with the Texas and Pacific east of the one hundred and fourth meridian, as provided in the bill, and using but one trunk line from the point of junction through to the Pacific coast, two results are accomplished:

First. Connections are formed with Kansas City, St. Louis, and Chicago, and all points east thereof to the Atlantic coast, thus giving increased earnings to the line west of the point of junction to provide the interest promptly as it matures.

Second. It will restore to the Government about thirty millions of acres of public land that is now under grant to these companies.

By the plan proposed the Government will have a transcontinental line completed without the issue of a Government bond, or the appropriation of a dollar of money. Through this line it will save, in its military, postal, and other departments from three to five millions of dollars per annum in its entire Southern Territory, and will have the means for a prompt, economical, and humane solution of the Indian question. There can be no doubt that the Government can thoroughly protect our Southern border with less than one-third of the military and other forces now employed there at large expense.

Through the roads provided for in the bill outlets will be given by way of New Orleans, Mobile, Charleston, Savannah, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York. And it will be of great service as a practical measure in promoting the general interests of the South, and in reviving the depressed manufacturing and other business interests of the North.

With the foregoing facts spread before Congress and the public generally, I think it very remarkable that the Times should permit such a perversion of them to appear in its columns. I trust you will correct it, and give this note a prompt insertion, and as prominent a position in your paper as you did the misstatements published to-day. THOMAS A. SCOTT,

President Texas and Pacific Railway Co.

Bleeding from Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption. A Wonderful Cure.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 13th, 1874.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir:—I had suffered from Catarrh in an aggravated form for about twelve years and for several years from Bronchial trouble. Tried many doctors and things with no lasting benefit. In May, '72, becoming nearly worn out with excessive Editorial labors on a paper in New York City, I was attacked with Bronchitis in a severe form, suffering almost a total loss of voice. I returned home here, but had been home only two weeks when I was completely prostrated with Hemorrhage from the Lungs, having four severe bleeding spells within two weeks, and first three inside of nine days. In the September following, I improved sufficiently to be able to be about, though in a very feeble state. My Bronchial trouble remained and the Catarrh was tenfold worse then before. Every effort for relief seemed fruitless.—I seemed to be losing ground daily. I continued in this feeble state, raising blood almost daily until about the first of March, '73, when I became so bad as to be entirely confined to the house. A friend suggested your remedies. But I was extremely skeptical that they would do me good, as I had lost all heart in remedies, and began to look upon medicine and doctors with disgust. However, I obtained one of your circulars, and read it carefully, from which I came to the conclusion that you understood your business, at least. I finally obtained a quantity of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, your Golden Medical Discovery and Pellets, and commenced their vigorous use according to directions. To my surprise, I soon began to improve. The Discovery and Pellets, in a short time, brought out a severe eruption, which continued for several weeks. I felt much better, my appetite improved, and I gained in strength and flesh. In three months every vestige of the Catarrh was gone, the Bronchitis had nearly disappeared, had no Cough whatever and I had entirely ceased to raise blood; and, contrary to the expectation of some of my friends, the cure has remained permanent.—I have had no more Hemorrhages from the Lungs, and am entirely free from Catarrh, from which I had suffered so much and so long. The debt of gratitude I owe for the blessing I have received at your hands, knows no bounds. I am thoroughly satisfied, from my experience, that your medicines will master the worst form of that odious disease Catarrh, as well as Throat and Lung Disease. I have recommended them to very many and shall ever speak in their praise. Gratefully yours,

WM. H. SPENCER.

Laws Relating to Newspaper Subscriptions and Arrearages.

The following is the law relating to newspapers and subscribers.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered wishing to continue their subscription.
2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills, and ordered them discontinued.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.
5. The Courts have decided that "refusing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
6. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.
7. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice to the publisher, at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it on, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrears, is sent to the publisher.

REDUCTION!

Until further notice, we propose to insert specials, or locals, in our local columns—not among the items, but distributed through the local matter—at TEN CENTS per line, eight ordinary words constituting a line. No charge, however, will be made for less than fifty cents. tf

St. Valentine's day comes on Sunday.

Business men say business never was duller.

"Belly bumper" is the popular style with coasters.

Dr. Ballantyne has taken rooms above the post office.

The recent cold snap played havoc with house plants.

The "bus" horses trot, trot to the tinkle, tinkle of bells.

Frank Hefright is bound to the railroad by a great many ties.

Snow almost every day last week. Sleighing was excellent.

The "sculp" business don't appear to be much on the decline.

The days are getting longer, and yet they don't amount to much.

The price of wheat is falling below the old standard—$1 per bushel.

Religious revivals are in progress in all our surrounding towns and villages.

A large quantity of heavy freight is passing over the Pennsylvania railroad.

The trains on the Cumberland Valley railroad are now supplied with Bibles.

The juveniles are all excitement at the coming of Gen. Tom Thumb and suite.

A new store is in contemplation for Mr. Bartol's house in West Huntingdon.

Col. Musser had to succumb to a heavy cold last week. He is about again, however.

"Did you see the bride?" we overheard at least a dozen women ask on last Sunday.

Chief Miller made a raid on the boys coasting on school house hill, one day last week.

Get your valentines ready, and if you want to save money buy them at the JOURNAL Store.

"Dad" Lewis flung his flag to the breeze when he heard of the triumph of Andy Johnson.

The growlers and grumblers have already predicted a failure of next season's peach crop.

The JOURNAL is "chuck" full of new advertisements this week. Times must be getting better.

The prettiest young lady in Huntingdon inclines her shoulders forward—stoops too much.

The police broke up the coasting business on the streets. It was a move in the right direction.

"Maynard's Combination Troupe" will give an entertainment, in this place, on the 17th and 18th inst.

Those who pay insurance on their property will find a considerable reduction after the introduction of water works.

James B. Carothers will be a candidate for the office of Justice of the Peace for this borough at the coming election.

The lady who allowed her domestic to go to a party, and then set up all night awaiting her return, felt decidedly sleepy the next day.

Wm. Hall, esq., of Greenwood Furnace, informs us that there has been no destitution in that neighborhood, so far, during the winter.

We understand that a party of roughs, who vegetate in this place, drove a horse to death one night last week, while out on a jamboree.

The last baby dropped in town, that we have heard reported, was left at the residence of H. C. Madden, esq. The parents are delighted.

If you want to hear sophistry, listen to the average man who is opposed to water works. Much of the argument is as thin as tissue paper.

The world-renowned Tom Thumb Troupe will exhibit, in the Penn Street Hall, on Thursday next, afternoon and evening. Go and see them.

The Barree Works are going into operation at once. Mr. Robert Speer, the manager, informs us that he has put a large force of men to work already.

Don't forget the entertainment of Gen. Tom Thumb, Wife, Commodore Nutt and Minnie Warren, Thursday afternoon and evening. It will be a rare treat.

We are indebted to the Sprague Can Opening Company, of Rochester, N. Y., for one of their patent Can Openers. It is a very neat and effective little implement.

Mr. John Slack, of this place, one of the night crew employed on the "shifter," had his left hand badly crushed, whilst engaged in coupling cars, on Friday night.

H. E. Crum, esq., we are sorry to hear, did not receive the appointment of postal clerk as was reported. Mr. Boombaugh took Mr. Owens' place, and not Mr. Crum.

The Methodist choir sang for the opening, on Sunday night, the beautiful lines composed by J. W. Welch, entitled, "Longing for Home." It was rendered in fine style.

One of the Greenwood Furnaces has been running all winter, and the other will be blown in some time in March. The Company has a large quantity of stock on hand.

A Rifle Tournament is announced, at this place, on the 22d inst. A Remington Rifle is to be the prize. The shootists will have an opportunity to display their proficiency.

We have received from E. M. Bruce & Co., Philadelphia, John W. Welch's splendid little poem, entitled "Longing for Home," originally published in the Pilgrim, set to music by W. J. Kirkpatrick. It is a perfect gem.

There is an impression abroad that the Sunbury and Lewistown railroad is controlled by the Reading Railroad Company, and that it will be continued from Lewistown up the Big Valley to this point to connect with the Broad Top.

Dr. George B. Orlady, of Petersburg, was admitted to practice law in the several courts of Blair county, last week, after a very creditable examination. He expects to locate in Huntingdon. We bespeak for him a brilliant future.

The Water Question, now and then, looms up prominently. The man who is well situated, has all the water he wants, and owns property, is generally opposed to Water Works, while those who want the town to improve are earnestly in favor of them.

Rev. Messinger, of the U. B. Church, has been appointed to the Falling Timber Charge. He expects to continue to reside here, however. We are glad of this, as he is a most excellent citizen, and has labored hard among our people for the last two or three years.

Rev. M. P. Doyle, our old Bedford county friend, has been appointed to the Hunting lon Charge of the United Brethren Church. He is a brave and able defender of the faith. We are highly gratified that he has been sent to this portion of the vineyard. We hope his ministrations may be eminently successful.

Information as to the whereabouts of Henry Stauffenberger, formerly of Hazleton, will be thankfully received by his widowed mother, Mrs. Catharine Stauffenberger, of Hazleton, Pa., who desires to see him immediately. His father is dead, and his mother needs his assistance. Exchanges will confer a favor by copying this notice.

On last Friday a week ago, Mrs. David Henry, of Sunbury, sister-in-law of S. E. Henry, of this place, carelessly threw some ignited paper upon the floor which set fire to her dress and other garments and burned her so severely that she only survived until last Friday morning, when she expired. She had $475 in money upon her person at the time, all of which was consumed. Mr. and Mrs. Henry, of this place, were immediately telegraphed for and they repaired to Sunbury and remained until after the funeral.

It gives us great pleasure to announce, to the public, that our gifted local poet, Dennis O'Rafferty, esq., will contribute, commencing in the course of a week or two, a serial Irish poem, for the JOURNAL, entitled "Miss Biddy McCann; or, the Wonderful Hand," in imitation of Hood's famous "Miss Kilmansegg." It will abound with jets of Irish humor, put up in Dennis' best style, while now and then brilliant gems of philosophy will season the sauce. If you want to read and preserve a good thing subscribe for the JOURNAL at once.

LARGEST SCALE CONTRACT EVER AWARDED.—The award of the contract for Post-office scales to the Messrs. Fairbanks has given much satisfaction to the trade and the public generally.

There were six competitors for the contract, and all kinds of oblique influences were brought to bear upon the Postmaster-General and the committee. The fact that scales for 3,000 to 4,000 post-offices had to be supplied by the first week in January, and that the Messrs. Fairbanks, at their several branches, from Vermont to California, carry large stocks, must have been a consideration. But the fact that in every capital of Europe, in the chief cities of India, in semi-barbaric China and Japan, on all the great American railroads, in the small pioneer stores on the western frontier, in the large establishments of our merchant princes, and in the laboratories of our men of science, the Fairbanks Scale is the standard, must have influenced the decision in favor of the champion scale-makers of the world. This is the largest contract for scales ever made in the world, and it is a matter for congratulation that the Post-master-General acted impartially in the award. If the same principle were adopted in all government contracts a beneficial impetus would be given to American manufacturers in first-class goods. The footing obtained by the Fairbanks Scales in Great Britain is an honor to our country, and that it has become the Government scale is but due to its merits.

LINES affectionately inscribed to Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hetzel, of Everett, Pa.:

Alone through the land of a prince I passed,
Through the wastes, in the path of duty,
When near me I saw with joy, a flower,
Rare both in its fragrance and beauty.

I paused, then on in my mission I went
And came; Ah! the flower was lifted!
A voice to me said: "The P ince to his home
Took this flower, so rare, so gifted."

In the journey of life I saw a child
Whose soul, radiant, shone through his features;
I saw in his eye and his mantled brow,
The child wiser was than his teachers.

"What manner of child is this?" then I said,
"To the world he will be a blessing;"
Him nearer her bosom his mother drew,
"My own darling," with fond caressing.

Then I came again; Ah! the child was gone,
For the Lord had come in the even,
And a whispered voice, clear and sweet, I heard.
"For of such is the kingdom of heaven."

PUBLIC SALES.—The season for public sales is fast approaching, and we would remind those of our readers desiring any of this kind of printing, that we have superior facilities for executing it. We have a large and varied assortment of cuts, purchased expressly for illustrating sale-bills; also, an invoice of new type, embracing several different designs, for the same purpose; and we flatter ourselves that we can get up the neatest posters in this section of the country. Call and see specimens, before going elsewhere. tf.

WHY does the "Domestic" Sewing Machine continue to have a ready sale while other machines are a drag on the market in these times of stagnation and panic? The answer is just here: Because all experienced sewing machine men, and everybody else acknowledge the superiority of the "Domestic" over all other machines. And people knowing its superiorities, and seeing its merits will buy it and the investment is one that pays and is never regretted. nov.4tf.

GRAND MUSICAL RE UNION.—The twenty seventh day of February will be a memorial day in Louisville in more ways than one; on that day we shall have not only the great drawing of the last Library Concert, but also the great musical treat of Gilmore's renowned orchestra.—Gilmore is the peer, if not the superior of Theodore Thomas or of Julian. This is his first visit to the West, and except for the gift concert there is little probability that our citizens would ever have heard his wonderful performances. In the East people travel a hundred miles or more to attend one of his concerts. Remember that only those who hold at least a coupon ticket in the drawing can gain admission to the hall.

IRON CITY COLLEGE.—We clip from the Presbyterian Banner, of January 27th, the following complimentary but well deserved notice of this popular and successful business college:

"The Iron City Commercial College is now in the full tide of successful study. This is the only institution of the kind in Pittsburgh that we recommend to the public patronage."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

FROM CALVIN TOWNSHIP.

CALVIN TWP., Ginerwary 28th, 1875.

DEAR JORNAL:—I see, sir, yer always callin for locals and sich, and indade times are so hard in our diggins, it should make a dacent mon cry to hear how we poor fellows do put in this hard winter; niver a drap of the crature do miny of us git, and sure we must curtail on our tobacco and praties, and living on hope is anything but plisent.

Our skules, I'm told, are all progressing finely. So much for our Directors' segacity in securing gude teachers.

We hear a lot of our young bloods, with a lot from Ground Hog Valley, went to Cassville last week one night for a hoe-down, and doubtless had a gude time on it, but I believe they are mostly round on all fours again.

Indade, sur, an I was glad, on picking up yer paper, till hear from me ould kountryman, Pat O'Brian. Gude luck till his ould sowl; I feared he niver would come back from his trip up Salt River. Plase give him me bist respicts, an tell him till bring Bridget an koon right up till our shanty, an, sur, if it's to be had, I'll have me jug full, an shure me an Peggy will make thim fate to home, sur.—Plase till him ter bring a couple papers of cut an dry along!

And, sur, I remimber when you printer men used till make us think it was a sin for till borry newspapers, but now these harti times, whin we have nothin to do but smoke an rade, we think it is part of our religeon, ispecially the Globe, it is so much like radein Schripture. I was radeing the Local News to-day, where he was askin for news, and not slurs, an sez I to Peggy, that is a gintleman, an faith how nisy he kan be accommodated, for the Howly Praste, as Pat says, wants nothing else; and shure, if not sint to him he kiu make thim himsilf. Some paple make a great fuss about timperance, but shure, sur, I would rather chance the worst whiskey iver come on till this mountin and be drunk on him three times a wake, an it would not put so much divil in till a mon as rading that feithy, fighting shate. I told Peggy I would rathir subscribe for Tom Pane's paper if he is still publishin it. Yours as iver,

LITERATURE.

Yale Lectures on Preaching; by Rev. Henry Ward Beecher; delivered before the Theological Department of Yale College, in the regular course of the "Lyman Beecher Lectureship on Preaching." Third Series. 12 mo. cloth, $1.50.—J. B. Ford & Co. New York.

This is the third series of lectures delivered before this institution by this talented and world renowned lecturer on the "Sage Foundation." It is comprised in twelve lectures. "The Preacher's Book," "How to use the Bible," "The true method of Presenting God," "Conceptions of the Divinity," Practical use of the Divine Ideal," "The Manifestations of God through Christ," "Views of the Divine Life in Human Conditions," "Sin and Sinfulness," "The Sense of Personal Sin," "The Growth of Christian Life," "Christian Manhood," and "Life and Immortality." These lectures are held in high appreciation by the learned gentlemen composing the Faculty of Yale College, as well as by the large and cultivated audiences to which they were addressed, and it is not presuming too much to say that the views of "the great preacher" upon these subjects would, if carefully studied prove permanently useful to every christian minister in the land, as well as to all who are interested in the study of topics connected with the christian ministry, or the advancement to a higher life and greater usefulness. The other books of this series as well as all the writings of this popular author are published by Messrs. Ford & Co. For sale by J. C. Blair.

GENTIANELLA. A Novel, by Mrs. Randolph. This is the latest volume of the "International Series of New and Approved Novels," now being published by Messrs. Porter and Coates, of Philadelphia. This series promises quickly to become an established favorite with the lovers of good novels. It embraces, already, some of the very best writings, of this class, mostly obtained from English sources. The previous work—"Chaste as Ice, Pure as Snow"—was written by Mrs. M. C. Despard, and is what "The Aldine," which is authority in literature as well as in art, calls "a very good book in the fullest sense of the word." The present book is also by an English writer, and is a novel of more than ordinary merit. Its characters are all taken from English fashionable society; its plot is very fine and romantic; and its heroine, always the most enticing feature in a fine novel, a very lovely one indeed. It, like the others of the series, is beautifully printed on type that is sufficiently distinct that the eyes are not injured by reading it, which is not the case with many of the books now published; and it is very neatly bound in a new and pleasing style—light drab linen, with black lettering and ornamentation. 12 mo. $1.25. For sale by J. C. Blair.

Lippincott's Magazine.—The two numbers—January and February—of this beautiful magazine, already issued for 1875, are really a pleasure to peruse. The "New Hyperion," giving the description of the journey from Paris to Marley, by way of the Rhine, is concluded in the January number, and the first of the two papers entitled "Following the Tiber" is given. The second paper occupies the place of honor in the February number; both are finely illustrated. Besides these there is an almost incredible amount of useful, interesting and entertaining matter.—Lippincott's is decidedly the handsomest of the first class monthlies, and is ably conducted. J. B. Lippincott & Co., Phila.

The Penn Monthly.—This well favored monthly is also a Philadelphia publication.—It is devoted to Literature, Art, Science and Politics, and is therefore in a field, so far as this State is concerned, particularly its own. It is well edited and the January and February numbers of this year, already received, give evidence of this fact by the excellent character of their contents. The monthly summary is always full of interest. Terms, $3.00.—Penn Monthly Association, Phila.

Philadelphia Produce Market.

PHILADELPHIA, October 1.—Bark moves slowly at $25 per ton for No. 1 Quercitron. In tanners' bark nothing doing.

Seeds—The demand for cloverseed is limited to the better grades, which are in small supply; sales at 4@4¼c per pound; Timothy is quoted at $2.75; flaxseed is taken by the crushers at $1.10.

The flour market presents no new feature worthy of special note. The inquiry is confined to the wants of the home consumers, whose purchases foot up 1,000 barrels, including superfine at $3.75a4½; extras at $4a4.62½; Wisconsin extra family at $4.87½; Minnesota, do. do. at $5.25a5.75; Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana do. do. at $5.25a6.25; and fancy brands at $6.50a7.50. Rye flour sells at $4.75. In corn meal no sales.

There is no improvement to notice in the wheat market and prices are weak. Sales of red at $1.18 at 1.22; amber at $1.23a1.25, and white at $1.26a1.35. Rye is quoted at 92c for Pennsylvania and Western. Corn is in limited request and prices are barely supported; sales of 1,200 bushels Pennsylvania yellow and mixed western at 77a80 cents. Oats attract very little attention and we note sales of western white at 67 cents.

Whiskey is in better demand. Sales of 200 barrels western iron bound at 98 cents.

Fat Sheep for Heavy Fleece.

There is much said about ewes being too fat to breed well. In my experience of twenty years, I have never seen anything that led me to think so, providing the flesh was put on with good pasture during the summer, and a few roots with good hay during the winter. The fatter sheep become under these circumstances the more valuable I should consider them. There is a time in the year when it pays better to feed a small allowance of grain daily than in the Fall, after the feed gets frozen, and it is necessary to bring the flock to the barn.

It is an old saying, that "sheep well Novembered are half wintered." Keep the ewes fat and the lambs will be fat and fleeces heavy. I do not say whether it is better to have the lambs come early or late, but I do say it is best to have them fat; then whether early or late they are saleable. All ewes, that with good care, will not raise a lamb and shear four pounds washed wool, should be sold. I have them in my flock that will shear nine pounds, and raise a pair of twins, and it costs no more to keep one than a sheep that shears only three pounds. I think no one will hear the man who keeps his flock in this way, complaining that his sheep are "run out" and do not pay and the like.

Ticks must be kept out of the flock; they are the worst enemy of the sheep.—If they are not killed they will destroy the sheep. For killing them I have never tried anything better than strong tobacco juice.

Confidence in Animals.

There are probably, few persons, familiar with farm life who have not observed a marked contrast betwen the general character and appearance of the domestic animals kept on different farms within the circle of their acquaintance.

On approaching some farm houses, the first salution comes from a noisy, growling dog, who seems to take you for a trespasser. The next, from his master who divides his energies between welcoming you and scolding the dog for not behaving better. You visit the barn, and as you open the door, a frightened cat scuds across the floor, and with one look back at you from her great eyes, disappears through the hole in the floor, or out at a broken window.

The horses lay back their ears, squeal and kick the sides of their stalls, as much as to say: "We feel cross and can't help acting it out." The oxen and cows start back as you pass them as if afraid they would be hit with a fork, and the young calves and pigs scamper to the farthest corners of their pens, and even the chickens seem to be bound you shall have all the room to yourself.

We cannot begin too early to handle and pet the young animals we are raising. It is wonderful how soon they will acquire a feeling of confidence and learn to come to us for protection and care.

Economize Fodder.

All through the large area of country over which the unparalleled drouth of the past season prevailed, there is a scanty supply of food for stock animals. Therefore it becomes a matter of first consideration to economize in feeding from the very start of winter. As warmth is equivalent to a certain amount of food, it is, important to provide warm stables and shelters for every animal. When stock is exposed to cold, a large quantity of grain is required to sustain the ordinary animal heat. A hungry man cannot endure the cold; but give him a full meal, and he will again face the fury of a winter's blast. Food is equivalent to artificial warmth, and so on the other hand, artificial warmth, or warm stables, is equivalent to food.—Detroit Tribune.

Strangles in Colts.

This complaint, known commonly as distemper, is nothing serious. The swelling which appears at the junction of the jaws and throat will in time break of itself and disappear. The only treatment necessary is to give the colt soft feed, with bran mashes and no medicine at all. The appetite, which falls off while the fever accompanying the disorder remains, will return as soon as the abcess has broken.—If the enlargement increases to such an extent as to threaten partial suffocation, it may be opened with a lancet and discharged. No poultice should be applied to the swelling. Sometimes, when the abscess refuses to break, or is slow in suppurating, it may be hastened by rubbing it with a little ointment, composed of one part Spanish flies and six parts of lard.

To Increase the Flow of Milk.

A writer who says his cow gives all the milk that is wanted in a family of eight persons, and from which were made two hundred and sixty pounds of butter in the year, gives the following as his treatment: "If you desire to get a large yield of milk, give your cow, three times a day, water slightly warmed, slightly salted, in which bran has been stirred at the rate of one quart to two gallons of water. You will find, if you have not found this by daily practice, that your cow will gain twenty-five per cent. immediately under the effect of it, and she will become so attached to this that she will drink almost any time and ask for more. The amount of this drink is an ordinary water pail full each time, morning, noon and night."

VALUE OF BUTTERMILK.—The most surprising thing we learned connected with butter during the Convention at Indianapolis, last week, was the statement to us by an intelligent gentleman, proprietor of a milk dairy near that city, that he could sell all the buttermilk he would have, if he gave his attention to butter making, at 12½ cents per gallon. Especially when it is considered that with ordinary management a considerable per centage of water is added to the milk, this price seems remarkable, and would add largely to the profit of butter making. The milk could be sold at this price, we understood, to bakers, hotels, etc.—Western Farmer.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE.

FREE FROM ALCOHOL.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medical properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of the disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflamation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters act on all these cases in a similar manner. By purifying the Blood they remove the cause, and by resolving away the effects of the inflammation (the tuberculer deposits) the affected parts receive health, and a permanent cure is effected.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use Vinegar Bitters as a medicine, and avoid the use of alchoholic stimulants in every form.

Grateful Thousands proclaim Vinegar Bitters the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Billious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying al its fluids with Vinegar Bitters. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Head-ache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Billious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of the Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional diseases, Walker's Vinegar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For inflamatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Billious, Remittant and Intermittant Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of Walker's Vinegar Bitters occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, sore Eyes, Erysipelas Itch, Scrufs, Discolorations of the skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

THE MOST VALUABLE PATENTS EVER USED IN PIANO-FORTES.

PATENT ARION.

REVERSED WOODEN AGRAFFE.

THE COMPOUND REST PLANK.

THE FULL IRON FRAME.

AND THE SUSTAINING IRON BAR.

A FEW REASONS

WHY THE

ARION PIANO

IS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS:

The ARION PIANO-FORTE has greater power than any other Piano-Forte manufactured.

It will Stand in Tune Longer, and in its mechanical construction it is more perfect, and, therefore, more durable, than any instrument constructed in the usual modern style.

The arrangement of the Agraffe, the manner of stringing, the peculiar form and arrangement of the Iron Frame

SUPERCEDES ALL OTHERS

The use of a bar (which is a part of the Iron Frame on a line with the heavy steel stringing,) gives where most needed, and in this respect all other pianoes fail.

The construction of the WREST PLANK, into which the tuning Pins are inserted, is such that it is impossible for the pins to come loosened, or the Wrest Plank itself to split, as is too often the case in other Piano-Fortes.

The Extraordinary Evenness

throughout the scale, the excellent Singing Quality, the

LENGTH AND PURITY OF VIBRATION,

all go to prove what we claim, viz: that the

ARION PIANO-FORTE

Is the Best Instrument Manufactured.

ALSO

ESTEYS COTTAGE ORGANS,

WITH THE

VOX JUBILANT

AND

VOX HUMANA.

THE NE PLUS ULTRA OF

REED ORGANS,

universally acknowledged to be the BEST Organ made for Sunday Schools, Churches, Parlors and Lodges.

Having more power, with a sweeter tone, than any other Organ in the market notwithstanding the representations of agents interested in the sale of other Organs, we do fully warrant every Organ for the period of five years, (at our own expense.)

BEATTY & PLOTTS'

CELEBRATED

GOLDEN-TONGUE PARLOR ORGAN

IS ACKNOWLEDGED BY EMINENT MUSICIANS AND DISTINGUISHED MEN OF HONOR TO BE THE LEADING INSTRUMENT NOW IN USE

—THEY SAY—

BEATTY & PLOTTS'

PARLOR ORGANS were awarded FIRST PREMIUM and DIPLOMA over Northam & Son's and J. Estey & Co's Organs at the Cattaraugus County Fair, held at Lehighton, Pa., September, 1872.—Lehighton Weekly News, Oct. 5, 1872.

Committee.—Prof. Charles F. Horn, Prof. Wm. Morse, and H. D. Healy, D. D., Hon. E. Long, President.

St. Clair, Pa., Dec. 6, 1872.

BEATTY & PLOTTS—Gents: I have received the Organ and be your favor to me, and find it entirely satisfactory. It gives ample satisfaction.

JOHN SUSKY.

New Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 25, 1872.

BEATTY & PLOTTS—Gents: During last year of your Golden Tongue Parlor Organs, for one moment, I thought before recommending it, to give it a fair, impartial trial, and am happy to testify that it surpassed all that I have said or written in all points of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and to issue a new edition entitled THE AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The improvement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their practical application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the legacy of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate
